

Alternate Historical Fiction

"Sometimes it's possible, just barely possible, to imagine a version of this world different from the existing one."

Ben H. Winters, Underground Airlines

Voyage

by Stephen Baxter

An intense novel explores what might have happened if President Kennedy had lived and a manned mission to Mars had been dispatched, combining historical figures and events with memorable characters who experience the trials and tribulations of this aspiring mission.

The Peshawar Lancers

by S. M. Stirling

On an alternate Earth irrevocably transformed by a violent spray of comets in the 1870s, the planet is controlled by two superpowers--the British Empire and Russia--who appear to be heading for a deadly showdown, unless superspy Captain Alfred King can stop it.

The Impeachment of Abraham Lincoln

by Stephen L. Carter

The best-selling author of The Emperor of Ocean Park imagines a world where the 16th President survives his 1865 assassination only to be charged with overstepping his Constitutional authority during the Civil War, a case that is aided by a black college graduate who is entangled in a violent political conspiracy.

How Few Remain

by Harry Turtledove

In 1883, the United States, still smarting from its defeat at the hands of the Confederacy, returns to the battlefields, with the Apache, outlaw gangs, and European forces becoming involved in the conflict, in a new novel of alternative history..

Fallout

by Todd Strasser

When an unthinkable nuclear attack occurs in an alternate-reality 1962, Scott is forced into his father's bomb shelter with his family and neighbors, where they rapidly consume limited supplies and fear the worst about the fate of the world outside

Clash of Eagles

by Alan Smaile

General Gaius Marcellinus of the Roman Empire is shocked by the fighting skills shown by Native Americans when he commands the invasion of the newly-discovered North American continent.

Lindenhurst Memorial Library

1 Lee Avenue

Lindenhurst, New York 11757 | (631) 957-7755

<https://www.lindenhurstlibrary.org/>

Alternate Historical Fiction

"Sometimes it's possible, just barely possible, to imagine a version of this world different from the existing one."

Ben H. Winters, Underground Airlines

The Difference Engine

by William Gibson

With the computer age arriving a century ahead of its time--during the Industrial Revolution--politician's daughter Sybil, explorer and paleontologist Edward, and diplomat and spy Laurence race toward a rendezvous with history.

The Man in the High Castle

by Philip K. Dick

After the defeat of the Allies during World War II, the United States is divided up and ruled by the Axis powers

Ruled Britannia

by Harry Turtledove

In a novel of alternative history, the Spanish Armada has conquered England, while in London, a mysterious stranger approaches young playwright William Shakespeare with an offer that could change the course of history.

The Plot Against America

by Philip Roth

In a novel of alternative history, aviation hero and isolationist Charles A. Lindbergh defeats Franklin Roosevelt in the 1940 presidential election, negotiating a cordial accord with Adolf Hitler, accepting his conquest of Europe and anti-Semitic policies, and igniting a storm of fear for Jewish families throughout America.

Age of Aztec

by James Lovegrove

When a masked vigilante known as the Conquistador defies the Aztec's cruel and oppressive reign and is recruited to spearhead an uprising, he must assassinate the immortal Aztec emperor while trying to elude a police detective who is determined to bring him to justice.

1812 : The Rivers of War

by Eric Flint

In a tale of alternate history set on America's western frontier, the Cherokee are united in the face of mutual enemies, finding allies among the politicians of the day and escaped slaves, forming an Indian Nation that will play an important role in such conflicts as the Battle of Horseshoe Bend and the Battle of New Orleans.

Lindenhurst Memorial Library

1 Lee Avenue

Lindenhurst, New York 11757 | (631) 957-7755

<https://www.lindenhurstlibrary.org/>

Alternate Historical Fiction

"Sometimes it's possible, just barely possible, to imagine a version of this world different from the existing one."

Ben H. Winters, Underground Airlines

Underground Airlines

by Ben H. Winters

A tale set in a modern America where the Civil War never happened and the country has forged a dubious agreement with four states that still enforce slavery follows the experiences of a talented black bounty hunter who makes discoveries about his mysterious past while infiltrating an abolitionist group to catch a high-profile runaway.

The Yiddish Policemen's Union

by Michael Chabon

An alternate historical work based on a premise that Alaska became the Jewish homeland after World War II finds detective Meyer Landsman investigating a heroin-addicted chess prodigy's murder, a case with ties to an extremist Orthodox sect.

The Mirage

by Matt Ruff

In the summer of 2009, Arab Homeland Security agent Mustafa al Baghdadi is plunged into a conspiracy involving Saddam Hussein, Osama Bin Laden, and the head of the Senate Intelligence Committee when a captured suicide bomber claims that the world in which they live is a mirage

Red Inferno: 1945

by Robert Conroy

The author of the best-selling 1942 imagines an alternate-history World War II in which the United States fatefully takes Churchill and Patton's controversial advice to invade Berlin to prevent Stalin's expansion into Europe.

The Years of Rice and Salt

by Kim Stanley Robinson

In an alternate history world in which the population of Europe is almost completely wiped out by the Black Death during the fourteenth century, three superpowers--China, India, and the nations of Islam--battle for supremacy in a World War destined to create a new world order.

It Can't Happen Here

by Sinclair Lewis

A New England newspaper editor fights to destroy the fascist dictatorship established by President Berzelius Windrip in this classic work by the author of Babbitt, Arrowsmith, and Main Street that prophesizes the coming of totalitarianism in the United States.

Lindenhurst Memorial Library

1 Lee Avenue

Lindenhurst, New York 11757 | (631) 957-7755

<https://www.lindenhurstlibrary.org/>