Library by Mail Service

District residents who cannot visit the Library due to a temporary or permanent condition can receive books, DVD's, magazines, music CD's and Books on CD, etc. through our mail delivery service. Library materials are selected by a librarian, based on your provided preferences, and sent to your home in a red canvas bag via the Post Office. There is no charge for the service, nor do participants accrue overdue charges.

In order to qualify, the patron must be a resident of the Lindenhurst Memorial Library district who cannot get to the library due to a long-term or short-term challenge. This may include the following: Short or long-term illness, non-driver status, visually impaired, physically challenged, or other issues.

If you do not have a library card, we will mail you an application for one. Library by Mail service will begin after you have a library card account.

You may request specific materials, or, if you prefer, a librarian will make selections for you, based upon the information you provide in the "reading preferences" section of the application.

For more information about our Library by Mail service, or to receive a print application, please contact Gloria Markowitz at (631) 957-775 ext. 120. You can fill out an online version here.

Talking Book Program

Homebound patrons may also be interested in the Talking Book Program administered through the Andrew Heiskell Library (NYPL) in New York City. This is a books-by-mail program that delivers thousands of recorded and braille titles postage-free. Residents of all ages are eligible for these services if they have difficulty reading standard printed materials because of one or more of the following: blindness or visual impairment; a physical disability that limits their ability to hold a book or turn pages; and/or a reading disability (such as dyslexia), resulting from organic dysfunction.

Special audio players and audio-books are delivered by mail free of charge to the patron.

If you or someone you know is interested in the Talking Book Program, please contact the Andrew Heiskell Library at (212) 206-5400.
